Counterfeit medicine is a growing problem worldwide. Checking your medicine could help to avoid the dangers associated with illegal counterfeit tablets.

Here are 4 easy ways to check that your Cialis is genuine Cialis.

1 Laser (hologram) Lilly sticker

If a Cialis pack outer does not have this oval sticker or if it has a sticker but the pattern (Cialis ÔswirlsÔ and tablet outlines) does not shift when the pack is rotated, it is likely to contain counterfeit product.

2 Tamper-evident seals

Genuine packs of Cialis have a transparent plastic seal, with a yellow and green Cialis ÔswirlÔ, over each opening flap.

3 Hologram sticker on the blister pack

The blister tablet pack should have 2 Lilly logos on the bottom of the foil. When tilted, the logo on the right side of the foil changes from dark red to green.

4 Unique ÔCÔ marking on each tablet

Genuine Cialis tablets are almond shaped, light yellow colour and marked C10 or C20 on one side only.

Any other presentation is unlikely to be genuine Cialis product.

Be careful where you get your medicines!

Only NZ registered doctors, pharmacists and registered on-line pharmacies are allowed to supply prescription-only treatments like Cialis.

Avoid the dangers of counterfeit medicine by getting your Cialis from a reputable source.
